THE

STUDENT PRINCE

Mr. William Hemmer

This book is a chronicle of your memories of Mary Institute. Your chosen theme is interestingly symbolic when it is applied not only to your days at Mary Institute but also to the years ahead. It has been well said that Broadway is not a specific place but rather a state of mind. Broadway is synonymous with illusion and make-believe, that is, relief from continuous reality. With the passing of time, you will rely increasingly upon this book to keep your memories of Mary Institute complete, because there will inevitably develop certain gaps in your memory of a story that is now unbroken. While this book chiefly contains your memories, it contains indirectly through implication your ideals and your hopes. These at this moment are all living, vibrant forces. As this book will keep alive your memories, so I trust it will help in some small measure to keep alive your ideals and reinforce your hopes. You will need illusions, too, because as T. S. Eliot has said, "Man cannot live with reality"; but I hope that you will always find that your illusions will be means of strengthening your ideals and that they will never be forces of deception that lead ultimately to self-destruction.

Athletic Association

This year, the Athletic Association, headed by Frances Cordonnier, introduced a different and more interesting program. Included in this program were the varsity hockey trips to Milwaukee and Kansas City, which proved to be very enjoyable for everyone. Don't be surprised if physical fitness is added to the list of interschool team competition, for we all know that it takes the greatest skill, endurance, and double-jointedness! Our cheerleaders have learned several new cheers which they taught the A.A. at a Pep Rally; also they have enthusiastically led our spectators. Other undertakings of the A.A. were the Posture Contest, which was very original this year, and the A.A. Banquet, during which the players were given their awards, and the board for next year was introduced. Six new members were added to the Varsity Club. The entire organization would like to express its thanks to the physical education department, and particularly to Miss Bemis for her unlimited help and interest in the Athletic Association's undertakings.

Varsity Tennis

This year the varsity tennis team was chosen the first week in May and was composed of twelve members (three singles players, three doubles teams, and three alternates). The practices continued every Saturday morning, and Monday and Wednesday afternoons. University City was our first opponent on May seventh, and the games ended in an over-all victory for Mary. The members participated in a playday on May tenth and played against Webster on the seventeenth. Valerie Pantaleoni was at the top of the singles, and Sue Forney and Ann Long were at the top of the doubles. Under the guidance of Mr. Larry Miller, this year's team has had an exciting and successful season.

Senior Hockey

M. I. can be exceedingly proud of her hockey teams. Before school began last fall, many girls tried out for the varsity. From approximately the seventy-five students who reported, twenty-five were chosen to comprise our two varsity teams. This year every member of the squad spent a weekend either at Barstow in Kansas City or at Milwaukee Downer. Milwaukee opened our season of games. The team felt that the experience of meeting girls from other cities and playing hockey with them was very worthwhile. The varsity played also in interschool games against Ladue, City House, Principia, Saint Charles, Burroughs, and Villa. Our team showed excellent skill and accuracy in their short passes, drives, and flicks. With teamwork and determination, students from each of the four upper classes made this year an almost undefeated season. Many thanks for their encouragement and help go to our captain, Susan Spencer, and coaches, Miss Bemis and Miss Walker, who made our hockey season a success.

Senior Basketball Varsity

Of the many girls who came for tryouts, only eighteen could be chosen to form the Senior Basketball Varsity. The players were selected for their dexterity, potential ability, and understanding of the game. In the first game of the season against City House, the varsity showed excellent ability in their shooting and zone defense because of the many practices, held on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays. Our second game with Ladue also offered much competition, and it was obvious that all our practices were worthwhile. In its last five games against Principia, University City, Nerinx Hall, Villa, and Burroughs, the team displayed its enthusiasm, determination, and good sportsmanship, especially in the games against Burroughs and Villa. The varsity of 1958 had an extremely successful year as we won five out of seven games. We thank the gym department for their support, and we hope to do as well in future years.

Modern Dance Club

The Modern Dance Club has completed its third year with much success. Led by their president, Sue Morris, thirty girls from grades eight through twelve participated in the club's activities. During the Tuesday and Thursday morning sessions, the members have tried to improve their skills as well as express themselves in creative dances. Under the able leadership of Elizabeth Schneider, the club has presented several programs. For the annual Christmas program, the entire club participated in a deeply religious presentation entitled "The Juggler." Various groups of girls have also danced in plays given by their own classes. This year, as usual, the greatest undertaking of the Modern Dance Club was May Day which had the theme "Invitation to Dance." The dancing, led by the members of the dance group, and the transformation of twenty-seven arches into six maypoles created a unique effect. The Modern Dance Club is becoming more and more popular and has added a great deal to the activities at Mary Institute.

RACING WITH THE CLOCK

We could not pay a true tribute to Broadway without recognizing those behind the scenes, for what would Broadway be without its playwrights, producers, and crew? We at Mary hope that by working on activities we have gained a small measure of togetherness, so vital in the world of today.

Student Council

The Student Council, composed of representatives from the eighth, ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades, in addition to a few faculty members and the Senior Council, is the core of the Mary Institute government. This year, the Council, ably headed by Lil Brokaw, worked with the faculty to adopt a program which would benefit the student as an individual. The student study hall supervision was extended to the eighth and ninth grade study hall, and new rules regulating "sign-out" privileges, which are to insure more time for studying, were put into effect. The new location of the Saint Louis Country Day School raised problems concerning driving, but it, also, presented the opportunity for the two schools, through their respective councils, to talk over various other problems. The success of the Student Council was due to the cooperation of the student body.

Bus Monitors

The sixth year of student supervision by a junior and senior monitor on the busses witnessed an important change. Aside from electing a representative to the student council, the bus monitors met with the senior council to discuss the problems which arose on the busses, and each member of the senior council spoke to the busses about their individual troubles. The bus monitors feel that this new plan was successful and hope to see it carried out in the future. Aside from the annual Christmas contributions, the girls gave the drivers an additional gift to express their thanks for the excellent work the drivers did on January 31, the day of the heavy snowstorm. Without the assistance of D. J. Atwood, the wonderful help of Miss Burlingame, and the patience of the drivers, the rides to and from school could not have been so enjoyable.

Chronicle Board

This year's CHRONICLE Board has worked steadily since September to present an interesting record of the 1957-58 events. Because of the small number of senior members, they have had to work many Sunday afternoons to accomplish their goal. Under the leadership of the editor, Kay Wilson, and the understanding guidance of Mr. Giessow, many changes have been made. Instead of personal solicitation for advertisements, letters were sent out to all our advertisers. Consequently, this cut down our income and caused a thinner book, but we feel it to be a change for the better. To add to the artistry of the book, montages were placed on the division pages and the opening page was changed accordingly. It is hoped that by working more closely with the juniors this year, they will be better prepared for their future positions. The Board wishes to thank Mr. Swain, Mr. Hausladen, and Mr. Giessow for their constant help, and to send our best wishes to our devoted friend, Mrs. Joedicke.

Mary's Diary

Despite the fact that our first issue of Mary's Diary came out on Friday, the thirteenth, we of the Senior Board feel that no year could have been a luckier experience.

One of our main objectives this year has been to increase the appeal of the Diary. On the Sports Page we have added pictures and feature articles geared to the "bench warmer" as well as to the athlete. On the feature page we have tried to entertain every reader by continually varying the type and style of story. To please our younger readers, the Middle Ages page has been made their own little issue by adding the lower and primary school news to the usual stories.

Our Christmas issue was one of our most exciting, for, to add to the holiday spirit, we printed two colorful Christmas woodblocks. The traditional Pictorial issue will bring to a close a highly successful year.

We wish to thank our faculty adviser, Mrs. Carl W. Kuhlman, Jr., and our hard-working board for making our last Diary year most memorable.

Greenleaves

This year, Greenleaves, the magazine representing the literary ability of the entire upper school, was published in the spring under the leadership of Cynthia Williamson. In future years, however, the board hopes to put out two editions. The material used in this publication consists of free compositions, themes from English classes, and translations from language classes. The task of choosing the best contributions falls upon the shoulders of the board members and the faculty advisors. After reading each article, every member gives her opinion of its value. Then the board and members of the English department vote upon the selections. The choosing of the articles, however, is not the board's only job. The representatives from each class also contribute many of the selections included in each year's issue. The art department plays an important role in the magazine's production, for it supplies the block prints which illustrate the magazine. The editor and board are grateful for the aid of the faculty and the support of the upper school.

Library Board

This year, the Library Board has done an exceptional job. Under Mrs. Schaberg and Mrs. Cardwell, the library has become a very important part of Mary Institute. This year, the Alumnae Room was moved in order to enlarge the library's facilities. Two large tables and many chairs were put in the room to enable many students to do reference work at the same time. Because of an increase in the budget, the library has been able to buy many new books, some of which had been suggested by the students. Mrs. Cardwell began to give the juniors and seniors very helpful instruction in the use of card catalogues. The thirty-one members of the Library Board, headed by Cynthia Bland, Mrs. Cardwell, and Mrs. Schaberg all have our deepest appreciation for the many improvements which were made in the library this year.

Senior Dramatic Club

The play given by the Senior Dramatic Club this fall was an adaption of Lewis Carroll's immortal Alice in Wonderland. This production was very successful because of its appeal to all ages. The art department contributed to its effectiveness by helping the Playworkers with the scenery and by making the masks which the girls portraying animals wore. The pantomimes of the Modern Dance Club and the songs composed by Mr. Arnatt which were used throughout the play helped make "Alice" the charming play it was.

This year some of the members were also able to participate in the Masque production of Bernardine at Country Day. This was the first performance given by the Masque on their new campus in Danforth Chapel.

As is the annual custom, the Dramatic Club presented a gift for the improvement of the stage equipment. The entire club would like to express its gratitude to Mrs. Dubois and the Playworkers who have helped make this year so rewarding.

Playworkers

This has been an exceptionally busy year for Playworkers. Under the leadership of Barbara Bixby and her board, Playworkers has successfully aided many dramatic productions. The year began with the Seniors' production of Alice in Wonderland, which required every member's efforts in making the scenery, sewing the costumes, and gathering the props. During Christmas vacation, the Juniors spent many hours working on their play, The Admirable Chrighton. The stage setting and costumes for the ninth grade play, The Tempest, were made by the Freshmen Playworkers. The Sophomores also worked hard backstage on their play, Antigone. After working on many Saturday mornings at school, the members of Playworkers realize that along with the fun, there is also hard work connected with this organization. Playworkers would like to thank Mrs. Dubois and Walter and his staff for helping to make 1957-1958 such a rewarding year.

Glee Club

This year, the Glee Club, under the leadership of Judy Brining, has been very busy and successful. As has been the tradition, the organization was again able to participate in the Festival of Carols and Lessons. For its annual spring concert, the Glee Club sang, accompanied by members of the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra, Benjamin Britten's "A Ceremony of Carols" and Pergolesi's "Sabat Mater."

In addition to these main productions, the members of the Glee Club were able to assist the Centennial Development Campaign by singing at the "kick-off" dinner at the Chase Hotel and the Alumnae Convocation at Mary Institute.

Other extra programs included singing at a Noon Service of the National Council of Churches convention at Kiel Auditorium, and making an appearance on television. During Christmas vacation several of the Juniors and Seniors in the Glee Club helped to cheer up the patients at Children's Hospital by singing Christmas carols.

We would like to thank Mr. Arnatt for his help and guidance in making this year so exciting and successful.

The Cum Laude Society

The Cum Laude Society was founded in 1906 by Dr. Abram Harris to recognize the scholastic ability of high school students. It was not until several years later that girls were made eligible for membership in the organization. This is the seventeenth year that Mary Institute girls have been able to fraternize in the society, for we received our charter in 1941. Members are chosen for their honor record in grades ten through twelve, and their standing in the upper fifth of the college preparatory seniors.

In a joint ceremony at Saint Louis Country Day School, nine of our Seniors were initiated into the society along with eight Country Day boys. This was the first Cum Laude initiation to be held in Danforth Chapel. Mr. Francis V. Lloyd, Jr., the Superintendent of the Clayton Public Schools, spoke to the assembly about making the most of one's abilities, after the members had been given their keys and certificates. In closing, Jim Dodds, one of the recipients from Codasco, spoke on behalf of the Cum Laude students.
